Welcome

Home & Community-Based Healthcare: Post-Acute 2.0 Next Generation®

The Role of PAC Providers: Vision to Execution

The next generation home and community-based services expands to greater integration, collaboration and innovation across the care continuum.

Our 14th annual Leadership and Clinical Summit gathers the experts leading change and willing to share with you how they are doing it!

Loews Chicago Hotel

455 N Park Dr, Chicago, IL 60611
Phone: (312) 840-6600

Overlooking Lake Michigan, this upmarket high-rise is a 13-minute walk from Navy Pier and 14 minutes from Millennium Park.

Sleek, sophisticated rooms and suites come with floor-to-ceiling windows. Visit one of the many amenities such as Streeterville Social, a trendy, seasonal rooftop bar, plus a posh lobby bar, 75-ft indoor pool, a gym and a spa.

Key areas leading us to the next generation of home-based and community-based services are being driven by new policy and patient-centered care initiatives. ACOs, health systems, payors and physician groups are finding better ways to collaborate and understand service integration across the continuum. The industry's announcement of recent mergers and acquisitions in hospice and palliative care are part of the changing dynamics.

Our experts and their models have identified key value and partnerships by:

- Identifying improved integration between hospice, palliative care, hospitals and community-based programs.
- Exploring quality of care integration across the continuum.
- Improving care transitions.
- Partnering to avoid unnecessary hospitalizations and emergency department utilization.
- Developing team-based patient-centered care.
- Creating initiatives for care management based on better patient-care management.
- Working with employer groups.
- Integrating home-based primary care services.
- Responding to the needs of the community.
- Expanding the role of palliative care and hospice.

Our Education Continues After the Conference

After the conference, we continue Home & Community-Based Healthcare: Post-Acute 2.0 Next Generation® in our webcast on September 20, 2018 (3:00pm-4:00pm Eastern). This is offered only as a continuation of your original registration fee. Join us. Your organization is invited to listen in!

I look forward to seeing you.

Palliative Care: The Next Generation

Wright Ballroom Foyer

The vision of what palliative care can and should be has evolved greatly. The next generation is about a consistent emphasis on the continuum of care, care transitions and the management of patients with advanced serious illnesses through the end-of-life care. This takes innovative partnerships between hospitals, community-based agencies and ambulatory services to create seamless support across sites of care.

There is an increasing need to the delivery of early palliative care services. This requires close partnerships with common interests, shared patient and family values with aligned incentives and integrated outcome measures. These partnerships expand across the continuum with institutional services, physician practices, academic institutions, senior living communities, and the home care industry.

In this session:

- Next Generation Palliative Care
- Creating innovative partnerships
- Outcome measurements
- Team-based patient-centered care

Keynote: Home-Based Primary Care and Home and Community-Based Value Exchange

Wright Ballroom Foyer

Thomas Cornwell, MD
CEO, Home Centered Care Institute

Home Centered Care Institute (HCCI) is a leader in advancing home-based primary care (HBPC) in communities across the United States. Their goal is to move home-based primary care into the mainstream. Research has shown that HBPC dramatically reduces costly emergency department visits and hospital readmissions. It encourages accountable care organizations to improve coordination and quality of patient care, making them more effective. And, it replaces expensive nursing home services while boosting patient satisfaction. Today, there are approximately four million adults in the United States that are homebound, and many of them cannot access office-based primary care.

Speaking Agenda

In this discussion:

- Get the latest national updates on home-based primary care, alternative payment models (APMs), ACOs, CPC++ and the Independence at Home Act demonstration.
- Learn about new pilot studies between home-based primary care with palliative care and hospice services.
- Explore the expansion of home-based primary care with ACOs, health systems and a social work model to prevent readmissions.
- Discover how physician housecalls are targeting high-cost ACO patients.

Spotlight on Successful Case Study Building a Network to Partner With Community-Based Organizations

Wright Ballroom Foyer

Carol Quiring
President & CEO, Saint Luke's Home
Care and Hospice

We have created a network or pipeline for the community to connect and stay connected to a system of health leads to enhanced health and wellness in our communities. Post-acute providers have the opportunity to partner with community organizations through the provision or pre-emptive education and innovative services for the chronically ill or senior population and their caregivers. Saint Luke's has built a network starting with baseline education; expanding to disease and chronic illness management; and connecting to transitional nurses forming long term relationships with at risk patients. Partnering with Churches, Senior Centers, and Retirement communities offer innovative models with multiple points of identification and connection.

Speaking Agenda

Follow the discussion on:

1. Creating the focus for community collaboration
2. Building a network of partnerships
3. Identifying models of delivery for education; patient partnerships; and caregiver/patient engagement.

Mary Pat Scoltock
Chief Strategy Officer, Journey Care

JourneyCare is one of the largest community-based, non-profit hospice providers in the country and a member of the National Partnership for Hospice Innovation. With a 40-year history of growth and innovation, JourneyCare provides hospice, palliative care and other advanced illness management solutions throughout the Chicago area and northern Illinois. Over the past five years, JourneyCare's overarching strategies of: 1) acquiring the scale and market coverage required to be the preferred partner, 2) developing outcomes-oriented partnerships across the continuum, 3) building innovative advanced illness management models and 4) participating in value-based payment arrangements have not changed. What has changed is our awareness of how all these strategies fit together; the linkages between the service innovations, partnerships and payment models. Learn the insights of an innovative model that links organizations across the continuum to deliver value.

In this session:

- How a close partnership between administration, strategy and clinical operations works to advance innovative models.
- Leveraging and expanding your core competencies and infrastructure to transition from hospice and palliative care provider to advanced illness solution provider.
- Transforming your business development function from "feet on the street" to "seat at the table."
- Developing outcomes-oriented partnerships with health-systems, payors and networks across the continuum.
- Leading with the data to deliver insights, show value and drive improvements in transitions, care management, readmissions and mortality.

Platinum Sponsor

Chronic Care Management is a solution-oriented technology and services care management provider. The company's primary focus is "in-between visit" care management for people with multiple chronic conditions. Founded by a physician with first-hand care management and primary care/geriatrics practice, the company develops and deploys software and clinically integrated care management programs that promote goal-directed, quality collaborative care planning. The solutions bring together healthcare providers, systems and stakeholders around a central, person-centered care plan that drive positive clinical outcomes for patients and positive financial outcomes for healthcare organizations. Providing fee-for-service healthcare providers a concrete path from volume to value, Chronic Care Management also empowers organizations who are participating in alternative payment models with a formal platform to foster care coordination, quality measure success attainment, advance care planning, care transitions, medication reconciliation, and a number of other success-driving areas.

Meet the Speakers

Sarah Boburka, CHPCA
President and CEO, JourneyCare

Sarah Boburka is President and Chief Executive Officer of JourneyCare, the region's premier palliative care and end-of-life provider, the result of the June 2015 merger of Horizon Hospice and Palliative Care, JourneyCare and Midwest Palliative & Hospice CareCenter. The combined agency now provides services to patients and their families in a 10-county region. During her tenure, JourneyCare tripled in size and grew its reserves by 400 percent, while achieving best-in-class employee engagement and family satisfaction. Sarah's background includes leadership experience in healthcare, financial services and nonprofit sectors, with expertise in cultural alignment, strategic planning, governance, operations, risk management and business development.

Lisa Connolly, NHA, MS
Vice President, Hartford
HealthCare Community Network

With over 30 years' experience in senior living and post-acute industry, Ms. Connolly serves as Vice President for Hartford HealthCare Senior Services, a business under the Hartford HealthCare Community Network. The Senior Services network is comprised of 3 Skilled Nursing Homes (2 owned, 1 managed), 4 Assisted Living Communities (3 owned, 1 managed), 2 Adult Day Centers, Good Life Fitness and 9 Centers for Healthy Aging. Under the direction of Ms. Connolly, Hartford HealthCare Senior Services programs and services produce over 76 million in annual gross revenue within its owned and managed business lines. These locations employ just over 1,000 employees serving over 690 residents

Thomas Cornwell, MD
CEO, Home Centered Care Institute

Dr. Cornwell is the CEO of Home Centered Care Institute, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to expanding house call practices throughout the nation. In 1977, Dr. Cornwell founded HomeCare Physicians whose mission is to provide quality home-based primary care to improve the lives of homebound patients and caregivers while dramatically reducing costs by enabling patients to age in place and avoid hospitals and nursing homes. Over the past twenty years he has made over 32,000 house calls. The work has received several national awards and extensive media coverage. In 2012, he found the Home Centered Care Institute whose mission is to spread home care medicine nationally.

Kelly Fisher, BSN, CHPN, CHPCA, COO, JourneyCare

As Chief Operating Officer of JourneyCare, Kelly leads a comprehensive array of programs for the agency, with a focus on fiscal stewardship and providing excellent clinical care to more than 3,000 patients and their families daily. Kelly also oversees the evaluation of ongoing programs and development of new initiatives. Previously, Kelly served as a consultant for hospice programs, nursing homes and long-term care facilities, including as Director of Home Care Programs at Agrace Hospice and Palliative Care in Madison, Wisconsin, and Administrator with Sunrise Senior Living. In Madison she also co-founded Bear Courage, LLC, a statewide pediatric palliative care coalition.
